Artist's Statement

'Everything Matters'

"This is my world.

A place where odd flowers thrive in the vivid landscapes of... fairy tales, maybe.

I paint what I want to see.

I remember in our garden, back when I was a kid, I coloured the newly opened snowdrops with gloss red and yellow and black with my Airfix paints.

Maybe I've never been content with the real world.

The paintings are mine, the world they live in is my own. To work they must have 'the thing'. They must turn from that theoretical balance of colours and composition to some kind of story or relationship. They are about life. They are characters. They are alive, maybe happy, maybe sad. Sometimes they just sit there, their heads hung low, posing a little awkward in their frame. There are no great battles, no epic scale. In this world there can be a story in a bent blade of grass. Everything Matters"
